

Every Friday we feature one of the garments from the magazine in a post about styling. We suggest different ways to wear the garment in question using mock-ups from Polyvore. We encourage readers to tell us what they think about these outfits via our Facebook page or Twitter, and if folks want to make their own outfits, please tweet them at us with the hashtag #twiststyle. You can find all of the Style Friday posts here.

---

It's almost the weekend, knitters! Which means lots of nice things, including another installment of Style Friday. This week, I took a look at Andover, Jean Chung's lovely cushy cardigan. There is a lot to love about this sweater. It has a lovely squishy texture, it has adorable elbow patches, and the pockets are handy and sweet. The oversize buttons steer it right out of twee territory.

My first set with this beauty is somewhere between casual and business-casual. A polished bag and a luxe top keeps things a little dressy (the one in the middle is sequined!), and menswear inspired shoes bring out the blazerish-ness of the sweater.

The next set is planted more firmly in the office, and is really just a pictorial love letter to tweed. Tailored dresses and sensible heels make this collegiate sweater look all grown up!

How would you wear your Andover?