

Kate here! Every week, Carly brings her sartorial skills to our Style Friday posts and this week she really made Peking her own. One of the things we love about Style Fridays and FOs is seeing garments in a new light.

As a Work At Home Mom [WAHM] I'd wear Peking in a totally different way and I bet some of you have some great ideas too. We use Polyvore to make our Style Friday sets. It's totally free if you'd like to try it. Just use this link to grab the garment and style it any way you like.

We want to see how you would wear Peking. Put together a set of your own with Polyvore or with photo editing software and share it on Facebook, ravelry or tweet it with the hashtag #twiststyle and we'll draw one name for a free pattern of your choosing. In the mean time, I've put together my own outfit to get you thinking. Yes, it's just jeans but I'm all about colors and accessories right now so that I somehow look different every day at school pickup.

Do you share Carly's retro style? My color-loving aesthetic? Something else altogether? We want to see.

Please finalize your entry by the end of day Tuesday and we'll draw a name on Wednesday.
