

Three Bags Full in Vancouver welcomed Rachael and the box of sweaters for a fashion show last week. Rachael sent along this dispatch.

This is the shop with all 50 people who crammed in to see the fashion show. They were ooh-ing and aah-ing away while knitting fervently to finish up their current projects, so they could start right away on new Twist designs.

Francesca is the lady in the blue shawl, and she is the owner of the shop. She gave out a door prize to every single person that attended. Incredibly generous, and I got to bring home a nice Three Bags Full tote myself

At the end of the night, I got a photo of the remaining staff, as well as volunteers who modeled for the fashion show, wearing Twist Collective items that they especially loved. In the middle is Sivia Harding, wearing her Aphrodite shawl. Everyone was incredibly generous, welcoming and fun. I can't thank them enough for the opportunity to come and do the show at their shop.

Three Bags Full promises to post a video of the evening soon, and I'll post it here and tell the Twist Twitter feed when they get that up. In the meantime, there are more photos of the show on Sivia's and Felicia's blogs to check out.
