Twist Collective Blog

Published on Thursday, 04 March 2010 09:03

A little while ago, Rosann (rav name lingy) posted in a Ravelry forum a link to her engagement photos, which is something I see more of these days thanks to such bloggers as and A Cup of Jo. Many couples aren't content with the usual studio portrait suitable for newspaper announcements: they put their individual touch to them, and can get quite creative. I especially love Rosann's, and not just for the story, and how sweet her own personal wolf appears to be.

Twist Collective Blog

Published on Thursday, 04 March 2010 09:03

Can you tell why I love these photos so? (pssst, that's Mari Muinonen's Sylvi she knit for the occasion!) For a better view of the famous flowers on the back, check out the whole sequence on the Jerry Yoon website. If you're wondering, the photographers are in San Fransisco, you lucky west coasters.