

For a while now, I've wanted a super warm sweater that was easy to wear. After seven months (I'm not kidding) of swatching and false starts, I finally managed to get what I wanted. Halliard has a kangaroo pocket, thumbholes that are hidden when you aren't using them, fun to knit cables and an easy to wear shape. Besides that, it's knit in an incredibly warm and soft, not to mention ecologically processed, yarn. Maybe all of this is why I have worn it every single day since I knit it. I think this sweater will be on me until the snow is gone. Just to make you giggle, here's a silly picture of me pretending I'm a supermodel. You can find the nicer and more serious photos on the shop page and in the magazine.
