

If you are experiencing problems with the website, often restarting your computer is enough. If you are still having problems with the site, you can email us the OS and browser you are using, as well as the problem you are having, and we will see what we can do. Please email this info to techsupport at twistcollective dot com. You can also try using Firefox with which our site has fewer glitches than other browsers. Remember, we will see your email first before we see any forums.